

A LIVE-WIRE NEWSPAPER --- WITHOUT DOUBT THE BRIGHTEST AND BEST APPEARING COUNTRY WEEKLY PUBLISHED IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA

PROV. HOUSE WILL MEET ON MONDAY

EDMONTON, July 17.—Premier Greenfield announced this afternoon that the Alberta Legislature would meet Monday, July 24, to consider wheat board legislation.

Saskatchewan Legislature Called
REGINA, July 17.—The Saskatchewan legislature has been called to meet in special session Thursday, July 20, to deal with the marketing question. This announcement was made officially today by Premier C. A. Dunning. Members of the assembly are being notified of the special session by telegram.

"While this notice is short," the premier said, "it will be remembered that the members have already been warned by wire to be ready for such an emergency." The session will be opened at three o'clock, when Lieutenant Governor Newlands will read the speech from the throne.

Premier Dunning could give no indication of the length of the session, and he could make no announcement as to the possible action of the Alberta government. Any statement for Alberta, he said, will have to come from the government of that province.

Alberta's Action

EDMONTON, July 17.—Shortly before two o'clock Monday afternoon, following a meeting of the executive council Premier Greenfield announced that members of the legislature would be at once summoned to a special session opening on July 24, for the purpose of dealing with the wheat board bill to be submitted concurrently in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

It was expected that the session would not be called until some days later but in view of the urgency of the situation and the fact that the Saskatchewan legislature assembles Thursday of this week it was decided to convene the Alberta house without delay. The wheat board bill is identical in both houses and if possible will be dealt with at the same time.

Dr. Scott, legislative counsel for Alberta, is now in Regina working with the Saskatchewan counsel in the drafting of the proposed bill to create the wheat board under Dominion provisions. Hon. George Hoodley was back for the council meeting Monday morning, the absentees being Hon. Perrin Baker, Hon. V. W. Smith, and Mrs. Paribly. Plans for the coming session were fully agreed upon at the caucus of U.F.A. members of the government here Saturday.

Wheat Board Needed

EDMONTON, July 17.—The statement issued by Premier Greenfield on the summoning of the legislature is as follows:

"The executive council this morning decided to call a session forthwith to consider the concurrent provincial legislation necessary to establish a wheat board.

"Conditions prevailing throughout the rural parts of this province during the present period of readjustment more than at any time since the beginning of the war, require the stabilizing influence of such a board by making it impossible for farmers to be forced by pressure from creditors to dispose of their grain immediately after threshing regardless of market conditions such re-establishing efforts of the government as the drought area relief act will be greatly furthered. The government deems it advisable therefore to recommend to the legislature that it be placed in a position to co-operate in every way with the Dominion and other provinces which may decide to act in establishing a satisfactory board.

"The government realizes fully that the limitations of the present Dominion legislation make the questions of finance and administration of such a board of vital importance from the provincial standpoint and questions on which the government must be fully satisfied before any provincial legislation finally comes into effect. On the latter question however it is expected that there will be a fullest co-operation from the Dominion government which under the Dominion act makes the appointments to and the regulations of the board."

MacLeod Fair Attractions on August 3 and 4

What about it? A great deal more by far than you may concede at first. Nevertheless the oldest town in the west will hold its usual annual fair with a better prize list, with lots of special prizes in addition to the regular handsome prizes, which will make for keener competition.

The Windy City intends to place before the public at large an exhibition of farm products, including live stock, poultry, grains and grasses, vegetables, domestic products, fancy work, and a program of sports which will provoke universal admiration. The crops are good, garden truck jumping ahead, and live stock in better condition than for many years. The outlook is most encouraging and augurs well to make the MacLeod Fair interesting with not a dull moment during the two days.

The grand stand, the centre of attractions may not have the presence of those who hold high positions in the British Empire, but it will have the elite of the district and town, also favored with the presence of the old timers who have had and still have faith in the doings of MacLeod's annual fair. "Meet me at the grand stand" is the catch word of the MacLeod Fair, 1922. The directors are making big preparations to make the Fair a real family affair for old and young.

Away down east, enjoy hockey and lacrosse, very good! The Old Land, football and cricket, splendid! But we are top-notchers in baseball, 3 games the first day and two the second will be full of thrills, excitement and pep. Six teams: Claresholm, Barons, Champion, Staveland, Lethbridge, MacLeod have their eyes on the purses amounting to $325. The MacLeod Fair Ground Diamond will have the best and fastest hurlers of the ball ever seen at one time in Southern Alberta. Crack teams, crack players, good sports will make 2 rousing days for rooters. Therefore we say, "Hello, meet me at the grand stand," for two days of real fun and sport. The races and bucking contests starting at one o'clock on the second day will have lots of go and pep, the riders being practically all local, and therefore well known, and from all accounts there will be a big entry for all the events. Keen competition and fast horses will arouse the liveliest interest and excitement among lovers of the sport.

The midway attractions by the International Amusement Co., will be the best ever seen on the MacLeod Fair Grounds. Ye real old time merry-go-round will be a source of delight to the kiddies, Tommy, Johnny, Maggie, Jeanie and also to Pa and Ma. Then there will be an Art Show, Athletic Show, Animal and Reptile Show, Sawing a Woman in Two Illusion Show, Hawaiian Village, Indian Camp, and all sorts of concessions too numerous to mention. No games of graft or games of chance on this midway, and the people are clean and know how to act as ladies and gentlemen.

Then we must not forget the "MacLeod Follies" in the Empress Theatre on the evening of the first day, when they will present an entirely new program of plays, songs and dances which will surprise and delight the most critical. These High School Girls are real artists and present a show which would be a credit to any professional troupe. They are so natural and enter so heartily into the fun themselves, that they rouse the enthusiastic delight of the audience from start to finish. Their costumes and dresses are all new, and are the latest styles suited for each part. They will surely be eye-openers when they appear on the stage. Such an array of youth and beauty will deserve a bumper house packed to the door. Following the show in the theatre a dance will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall, when a four-piece orchestra will provide the music and the MacLeod Follies in their fancy costumes will hand out the refreshments.

CAPITAL GOSSIP AND PROVINCIAL NEWS

Alberta Bond Sale

In spite of the present unsatisfactory state of the bond market, the Alberta Government was able during the past week to dispose of an issue of $3,500,000 five year five-and-a-half per cent. bonds at a price of 99.14. The purchasers were a syndicate composed of Wood Gundy & Co., Toronto, The Dominion Securities Co., and Biltmore Read & Co., of New York. The sale was made on private bids, after open bids on the bonds with a 30 year term had been rejected as too low. The price finally received was considered most satisfactory under present conditions.

Alberta Butter Stands High

During the recent exhibitions at Calgary and Edmonton, butter made in Alberta captured a great many of the prizes offered. The butter at Calgary, exhibited by various producers in the province, was judged by Commissioner Gibson, Dairy Commissioner of Manitoba, who said that unquestionably Alberta butter was the finest in all Canada.

Stock Judging Competition

The stock judging team of three students from the Gleichen school of agriculture was successful in winning the judging competition held at Calgary during the exhibition there, the competition being for a silver trophy offered by the department of agriculture and the staffs of the agricultural schools. The cup was competed for this year for the first time. It must be won twice by the same school to establish permanent possession. Teams competed from the schools of Claresholm, Vermilion, Gleichen and Olds. There was also a solid gold medal, a silver and gold medal and a silver medal, for the first, second and third highest individual standing in the judging competition. The competition was organized and supervised by E. Ward Jones, manager of the stock yards, Calgary. The judges were G. H. Hutton, C.P.R. Calgary, Prof. Lattimer, Alberta University, Prof. Bowstead, Alberta University, Alex Galbraith, department of agriculture, and Walter Crawford. Classes were held in beef and dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine. The competition was keenly contested, and the teams displayed good training and study.

From Nebraska by Car

Two agricultural college students from the university of Nebraska were visitors at the parliament buildings the past week, having driven up from Nebraska in a Ford car. They are touring Western Canada, and supplying Nebraska papers with articles on the attractions of the country. They expressed themselves very much pleased with Alberta.

Teachers' Summer School

Over 600 teachers from all parts of the province are attending the annual summer school now in progress at the university, under the auspices of the provincial department of education, and under the supervision of G. F. McNally, supervisor of schools.

New Members Elected

During the bye-elections of the past week to fill the vacancies in the legislature in the ridings of Sedgewick, Whitford and Ribstone, three new farmer members were elected. A. G. Andrews was elected by acclamation in Sedgewick to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Hon. Chas. Stewart; A. Chornobus was returned in Whitford over A. S. Shandro, the former member, and in Ribstone, W. G. Farquarson was elected over H. J. McKenna, a Liberal candidate.

The Alberta government has decided against giving aid to the Salvation Army scheme for bringing a number of women and children to Canada from Britain.

Spruce lumber from Alberta is very much highly prized in the Eastern States, according to a prominent lumberman who was a visitor to Edmonton during the past week.

Motion picture producers of Alberta meeting in convention in Edmonton, have expressed satisfaction with the censorship of pictures as carried on in Alberta, and have expressed confidence in the present censorship board.

Natural Gas Question

An investigation into the entire natural gas question in the province, which will produce information for the provincial government upon which it may act in respect to present problems, and upon which it may base a future policy with respect to the whole question, is to be made by Judge A. A. Carpenter, of the public utilities board. The government reached this decision during the past week, and a list of the twelve questions has been submitted to Judge Carpenter. Briefly, the questions will seek information on the following points:—

Present production of gas in the province, existing wells and capacity, and owners.

Present volume of consumption by municipalities for domestic and for industrial purposes.

Industrial concerns using gas now and minimum amount required by such, and price and terms on which they are supplied.

Agreements now existing between municipalities and corporations.

Effect of transporting gas out of any field, on municipalities now using the gas.

Methods of greater conservation of gas.

Ability of those now distributing gas to give adequate supply.

Agreements now existing affecting supply to any municipality.

Present methods of regulation elsewhere than in Alberta.

Methods of treating pipe lines as common carriers elsewhere.

Settlers for Irrigation Lands

Active campaign to bring settlers to the irrigated lands of the Lethbridge Northern District has already commenced, under the auspices of the irrigation council, with the co-operation of the dominion government immigration officials, who will place men in the field in the Western States to seek these immigrants. The campaign is being handled from the Lethbridge offices of the irrigation council.

Treatment for Poisoned Stock

In several places in the southern part of the province it has been found that cattle and other animals have become poisoned by eating bait for grasshoppers which has been scattered in fields, since the bait contains arsenic. Dr. Percy Talbot, the provincial veterinarian, has issued a statement following a study of the matter, in which he says that the most successful treatment as an antidote for the poison is hydrated oxide of iron, which should be administered in the form of a soft mass and must be freshly made and administered at once. Since, however, preparation of such an antidote would not be practicable for farmers who had to drive long distances to obtain the ingredient other remedies have been tried. It has been found that a mixture of ferric hydrate and magnesia will act promptly and effectively. For this preparation it is necessary to keep on hand in separate bottles 2 ounces ferric sulphate solution diluted with 1 ounce water, and 180 grains magnesia made into a smooth mixture with half a pint of water. When needed, the two should be mixed and shaken until a thin mass results. This should be administered in large quantities at short intervals, and followed with emetics such as alum, epinephrine or sulphate of zinc. The fact should not be forgotten that large doses of lime water, olive oil, caron oil, or macilaginuous drinks, as oatmeal gruel, are helpful. Stimulants might also be given and if there is well marked prostration, warmth should be applied to the animal by means of hot blankets.

Short Course for Children

One of the most interesting experiments yet tried by the provincial department of agriculture, and one which is proving immensely successful, is the short course school of a week's duration held at the Olds school of agriculture for 69 boys and girls, winners at the school fairs of last year in seventeen districts from Wetaskiwin south to Didsbury. The boys and girls attending this course ranged in age from 9 to 15, and some of them had never been farther away from home alone than their own agricultural fair. The young students were given instruction in many subjects, the girls taking sewing, cooking and horticulture, and the boys being given lessons in farm engineering, stock judging, grain judging, soil cultivation, horticulture, carpentry and other branches of agriculture. The instruction is being given by the staff of the Olds school of agriculture, headed by Principal F. S. Girdale, who, together with Nelson Smith, M.L.A. for Olds, originated the course.

Provision for recreation was also made, and the week proved to be a most interesting one for the young students. Among the outsiders who spoke to the boys and girls were Nelson Smith, M.L.A. for Olds, G. W. Smith, M.L.A., Red Deer, W. J. Stephen, crop commissioner of the province, and Alex Galbraith, Superintendent of Fairs and Institutes. Under the direction of C. G. Groff, Publicity Commissioner, motion pictures and other photos were taken of the students and the classes.

During the past week Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, has been in consultation with the provincial cabinet in the matter of immigration policy and co-operation of the provincial and dominion authorities in bringing settlers into the province.

Wheat Board

Premier Greenfield has returned from Regina, where he was in consultation with Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan, in the matter of passing provincial legislation to validate the organization of a wheat board. The matter is now being discussed by the provincial cabinet, but no definite decision has yet been made as to the calling of the necessary special session of the house.

Sixth Gov't Crop Report

Alberta farmers enter the third week in July with crop prospects considerably improved over a month ago, owing to the late rains which have been fairly general over the province. These rains, while they have come too late in some districts to guarantee a heavy crop, have helped the later-sown grain considerably, and have made a fair crop certain where failures would have been the result. Taking the province as a whole, the grain crop in the central and northern districts will be light, but the late rains will produce a good deal of green feed. The south-western areas are certain now of a crop that will exceed anything realized in that area for the past five years. The south-eastern areas are spotted alternately with good crop stands and with poor. Frequent showers have visited many areas and have much improved the situation. In the central and northern areas there are some districts in which the grain has been retarded by drought to such an extent that it will make a light crop but generally speaking the late heavy rains have brought on the later crops very satisfactorily.

South-western areas — Continued heavy rains have been experienced from Calgary south to Lethbridge and the boundary, and westward, with the exception of a few districts on the Aldersyde branch, where the crop has suffered. The indications in the south-western areas are for a heavier crop yield than has been experienced since 1916, and in some cases it is anticipated that the yields will be heavier than in 1915. Alfalfa cutting has been in progress in the irrigation districts, and the yield will be fair. Some of this crop has been winter killed. Precipitation for first two weeks in July at Raymond was 2.3 inches, at Lethbridge 1.53, at Claresholm 2.27 inches. Rye is four feet eight inches high at Claresholm and Lethbridge, and wheat is two feet six inches. Alfalfa yields are about 35 per cent. less than a year ago.

Southeastern districts — The districts east of Calgary on the C.P.R. main line and in the Medicine Hat section report further good local showers, and improved conditions as a result, though a few sections report damage from drought. Gleichen districts report rainfall 2.80 inches since June 28, Medicine Hat reports good showers over many parts of that district.

Central districts — A fair average crop will be cut in these areas, there having been good rains along the eastern section of the province north of the Red Deer River. Along the C. E. line between Edmonton and Calgary, several districts have suffered from lack of moisture, but recent rains have brought the later-sown crops along, and those crops of wheat which had not headed out, and the continuance of rain now is increasing the possibility of a good yield.

Northern areas — Grande Prairie, Peace River and Athabasca districts report that grain retarded there by dry weather is picking up with the later rains. Along the C.N.R. north of the Saskatchewan River reports give indications of splendid conditions and hopes of a heavy yield of grain.

Grasshoppers — With the campaign against the grasshoppers nearing a close, the reports confirm the belief that this pest has done very little damage to the crops this year, due to the vigorous and continued poisoning campaign.

Hail — Very few reports of damage from hail are being received so far.

Acres in crop — Revised estimates of the area in crop this year gives the wheat acreage at 5,232,000 acres, oats 2,832,000 acres, barley 532,000, rye 280,000, mixed grains 10,000, flax 25,000, hay and clover 450,000, alfalfa 30,000. Wheat shows an increase over last year of about 5 per cent, oats show a decrease of 3 per cent, rye an increase of 25 per cent. The potato acreage has been reduced about 4 per cent this year.

The city boy wrote to his country brother as follows:

"Thursday we motored out to the country club, where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach, and Friday there."

The brother on the farm wrote back: "Yesterday we buggered to town and baseballed all afternoon. Then we went to Med's and poked until morning. To-day we muled out to the cornfield and geahawed until sundown. Then we suppered, and then we piped for a mile. After that we staired up to our room and bedstead until the clock fived."

Red Cross Notes

Alberta may well be proud of her children as the following figures will show. At the recent test held by the Red Cross at their Demonstration Stall at the Calgary Exhibition, it was found that of the two thousand one hundred children weighed only twenty were cases of mal-nutrition. There were several cases of children slightly under standard of one or two pounds, but these were of negligible quantity. It must be remembered that these were all or nearly all city boys and girls. Mothers who were interested in the diets listed on the diet table can obtain diet cards by applying to the Red Cross Division Headquarters, Calgary.

Rules of the Health Game

1st. A bath more than once a week.
2nd. Brush the teeth at least once a day.
3rd. Plenty of sleep, with windows open.
4th. Drink a pint of milk a day, but no tea or coffee.
5th. Eat some vegetables or fruit every day.
6th. Drink four glasses of water a day.
7th. Play out of doors every day.
8th. A bowel movement every morning.

Mr. R. H. Scott, Field Representative and organizer has been visiting in the northern part of the province and reports a new organization at Yeoford. This branch will devote its energies to assisting the district health-nurse. A branch of the Junior Red Cross has been formed at Seattle. Mrs. Scott's tour has included visits to Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Chatter, Daysland, Sed

WINNIPEG, July 18.—United Farmers of Manitoba emulated the victory of the United Farmers of Alberta on the anniversary of the Alberta elections by sweeping the Norris government from power on Tuesday, and the formation of a Farmer government in this province will take place immediately. Premier Norris is expected to resign as soon as the Farmers can choose a leader who will be premier.

Premier Norris was left with only about eight supporters as a result of the day's voting. The Farmers will have 25, with the possibility that the three deferred elections will increase their lead. In order to have a clear majority of the 55 seats the Farmers will need 28, but with the deferred elections and the independent group to draw from there appears to be little doubt that there will be at least this number sitting at the right of the speaker in the next legislature.

George F. Chipman, editor of the Grain Growers Guide is looked upon as the likely new premier, though he is likely to be defeated in Winnipeg, where he ran as a Progressive. The complete Winnipeg results will not be known for some time as proportional representation applies here.

An Appreciation From Hospital Board and Matron

The members of MacLeod Hospital Board with the matron, Miss Camies, wish to voice an appreciation of the aid given MacLeod General Hospital during the past year by the ladies of Allenfields and Rathwell districts and by the MacLeod Ladies' Hospital Aid.

Swick, Lougheed, Killam and Provost. He has with him two excellent sets of lantern slides, illustrating the work of the Alberta Division in the Province, including pictures of the Junior Red Cross Children's Hospital. The second set, entitled "Health and Common Sense" deals with suggestions of right living and good health. Any branch wishing to arrange for a lantern-lecture should communicate with the Provincial office.

I met a young widow with a grown-up step-daughter and I married the widow. Then my father met our step-daughter and married her. That made my wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law, and made my step-daughter my step-mother, and my father became my step-son.

Then my step-mother, the step-daughter of my wife, had a son; that boy was of course my brother because he was my father's son, but he was also the son of my wife's step-daughter and therefore her grandson, which made me grandfather to my brother.

Then my wife had a son. My mother-in-law, the step-sister of my son, is also his grandmother because he is her step-son's child. My father is the brother-in-law of my child, because his step-sister is his wife. I am the brother of my own son who is also the child of my grandmother; I am my mother's brother-in-law; my wife is her own child's aunt; my son is my father's nephew, and I am my own grandfather.—Trumbull Cheer.

THE EMPRESS THEATRE CURRENT ATTRACTIONS

BEAUTIFUL AND TALENTED CALGARY STAR IN "THE MAN OF THE FOREST"

Claire Adams is rapidly becoming the screen's greatest emotional actress. If you doubt, or if you have not seen her recently, her role in "The Man of the Forest," Benj. B. Hampton's great photoplay of the novel by Zane Grey, a Hodkinson release, which you can see at the Empress Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, is positive proof. Moreover, she is growing more screen beautiful and graceful than ever before.

Natural talent, even genius, cannot teach one shadow-stage art in a day, and the actor or actress who does not progress with each picture, even after years of experience, is a lagard. Miss Adams has made wonderfully rapid progress in the short time she has been before the camera. She has a natural fire and talent, and a wonderful inborn ability to act.

The talent is there in her portrayal of "Helen Raynor" in "The Man of the Forest"—brought out, broadened and strengthened by a polish and sureness of technique that marks Miss Adams' progress from her first pictures. She has a strong, calm, poised naturalness of manner that builds for her a "different" screen personality. Sincerity is her motto, and the keynote of her acting, and this sincerity, combined with that in-born inspirational fire, makes Miss Adams climb to fame one of the most meteor-like on record.

She is introduced to us in "The Man of the Forest" as a little Missouri music-teacher, but at the very opening of the story Fate waves a magic wand, and she goes to Arizona—modern Arizona, but a fairland of adventure, love and romance. There's a big, strong, most strangely fascinating hero with whom she falls in love, a sister she has to protect, and several villains who plot against her in one way or another—and not a dull moment from the time of her arrival until the moment of her great happiness in the end.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO KISS?
ASKS MARIE

"Say It With Your Eyes First" Confides Clever Little Universal Star

"If there is nothing but the caress of lips in a kiss, there's nothing to it worth having," says Marie Prevost. The observation is apropos her latest Universal picture, "Kissed," coming to the Empress Theatre on Friday and Saturday. The story is all about kisses, one kiss and—a few others.

"The eyes, the pressure of the hands, the electrical current of feeling that flows through the air from one to the other is the thing that counts in a kiss," she adds. "Simply the pressure of lips upon lips is not worth having; it is purely physical, means nothing and brings no happiness. If you want to kiss someone and desire them to recognize it as having a lot of value, say a lot about it with your eyes first."

After Marie says all this she shyly slides back into a corner and answers no questions.

That may prove that she isn't experienced enough to make herself convincing in the star role of "Kissed," but again it may not, for what's the good of knowledge anyway. Imagination is what makes a good actress.

Kisses have from time immemorial been the subject of poems, ballads and essays, but never before has a motion picture been filmed with them furnishing all the material for the story, the title and the comedy action. Will we see "Kissed"? M-m-m-m-mmmmm

"THE LITTLE MINISTER" LEADING MAN IS A LITTLE CHAP

Betty Compson's Cowpunchers in Picture Discuss Players' Qualifications

Some of the Scotch soldiers—recruited from the extra ranks and being mostly cowpunchers—employed in "The Little Minister," Betty Compson's new Paramount picture which comes to the Empress Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, were discussing the various characters and their interpreters on the set, during the filming of the picture.

"I always thought leading men in pictures was big chaps," said one. "But look at that little feller, Hackathorne—he ain't any bigger 'n a kitten."

"Shucks!" replied another, "where's your brains? Ain't he playin' the 'little minister'? How could he be big?"

George Hackathorne has a role of great force in this picture, Miss Compson makes one of the most beautiful Lady Babbies that could be imagined. There are many thrills in the development of this charming picture story.

JUDGED BY ALL TESTS
HERE'S A REAL FILM PLAY

How important is a film play? How can the public judge whether or not it is worth seeing?

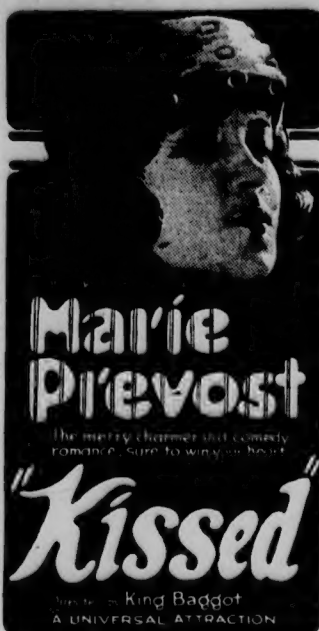

A good example always goes well with an answer.

"Kissed," coming to the Empress Theatre on Friday and Saturday, is a Universal special attraction starring Marie Prevost. The value of Miss Prevost as a star was proven by her first Universal picture after she left the bathing beauty fold and became a dramatic artist.

The director of "Kissed," King Baggot, just recently completed a production which ranks as the third biggest Universal ever made, "Human Hearts." His work as a director has progressed steadily and now he is rated as a headliner at Universal City. He made one or two of the first Prevost successes.

The author of "Kissed" is Arthur Somers Roche, popular fiction writer, the scenarist is Doris Schroeder, who prepared practically all his Prevost's previous vehicles for screening.

The leading man is J. Frank Glendon, formerly a star and Harold Goodwin also has had his name in the big letters. Harold Miller, Lloyd Whitlock, Arthur Hoyt, Lillian Langdon, Marie Crisp and Percy Challenger complete the cast. It is unusual.

Taken point by point, "Kissed" shows unusual promise in advance.

"THE LITTLE MINISTER" COMING

A Paramount picturization of Sir James M. Barrie's famous novel and play, "The Little Minister," starring beautiful Betty Compson, will be seen at the Empress Theatre for two days beginning Monday next. This is a superb Penryn Stanlaw production and presents this charming star in a most fascinating role, that of Lady Babbie. Miss Compson is one of the foremost of screen stars and her popularity is immense. Supported by George Hackathorne, Nigel Barrie, Edwin Stevens and other noted players, Miss Compson's portrayal in this picture will long live in the memory of her admirers. Don't miss it.

"THE MAN OF THE FOREST"

A huge black bear, a lithe, sleek mountain cat, a monkey whose antics are almost human, a black stallion with flowing mane and feet shod with fire—an immense mastiff—these are some of the animal actors that participate in Benj. B. Hampton's new photoplay, "The Man of the Forest," adapted to the screen from Zane Grey's novel of the same name, released by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, which will be shown here next Wednesday and Thursday.

ENORMOUS DRINK BILL OF BRITISH ISLES

Lord Leverhulme, the great soap manufacturer, said a few days ago that if Great Britain would adopt prohibition she would be able to pay the United States the money she borrowed in the war in three years. It is calculated that in the past year the drink bill of the United Kingdom was two billion dollars, which includes not only what was spent for drink, but what was also paid in taxation, so one can calculate for himself how long it would take for Britain to clean the slate with the United States if every dollar now spent on drink were diverted to that purpose. There may be in the British Isles a large number of people whom even this inviting prospect would not convert to prohibition, people who would rather spend a shilling for a drink than turn it over to Uncle Sam. But there are also people in the United States who regard Great Britain as a defaulting debtor, and who think it unfair and almost dishonest that she could continue to spend huge sums on drink before settling the war account.

A Dollar a Head Per Week.

As estimated by Mr. P. W. Wilson, the well-known English newspaper writer, now an American correspondent of the Daily News, the drink expenditure in Great Britain and Ireland amounts to about a dollar a head per week for the entire population, or family. Before the war there were five dollars a week for the average family. Before the war there were hundreds of thousands of British workers who did not earn more than a pound a week, and though wages have increased in almost all trades, it is staggering to think that a pound a week is laid out on drink. The figures are the more shocking when one recalls that unemployment is acute, and that about one worker out of six is without a job. That the great bulk of the drinking is done by people of moderate or slender means is indicated by the statistics which show that only one-fifth of the expenditure goes for wines, which are more expensive than other liquors, and are, as a rule, the beverage of the wealthy. Beer remains the national tipple.

Obstacles to Prohibition.

In discussing the obstacles which the British prohibitionists have to face, Mr. Wilson points out that strong drink was the first of beverages, apart from water and wine, in the Old Country. It was established before tea, coffee, cocoa, lemonade or other light drinks were introduced. The British reformer is not faced with any such problem as was met by Kansas and many other American states that voted dry. The American states often had to consider whether they would permit a public house, or, indeed, any other kind of house, existed before. The British reformer has to consider whether he will tear down or close up a public house that has existed for centuries, one, perhaps, that is famed in literature.

No Corrupter of Politics.

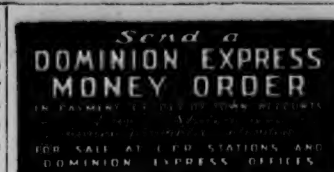

There is another vital difference. It may have been forgotten of late years, but it is, nevertheless, the fact that the anti-saloon movement in the United States was really an anti-corrupt politics movement. If the American saloon had not mixed in politics, if it had not permitted itself to become headquarters for corrupt politicians, and almost a synonym for all that was thuggish in American government, the saloon might exist today. To clean up their politics, to get decent local government, Americans discovered in a thousand cases that they had first to abolish the local saloon. In Great Britain there is no analogy to this condition. In many communities the publican is the most respectable, the most substantial citizen. He is usually a church-goer. He is often a church-warden, and, perhaps, a kind of benevolent moral censor. He is the best known, perhaps the most kindly, man in the neighborhood.

The Brewers' Policy.

Moreover, the brewing interests took no particular interest in politics until the nineties, when they began to suspect that temperance sentiment, as well as financial necessities, prompted some of the taxes upon them. Then they made a wise move. Most of them turned their businesses into joint stock companies. Instead of being a hundred or a thousand brewers, there became a million, or more than a million, holders of stock in breweries. Any move calculated to reduce their profits or impair their capital became a move that a million voters would actively combat. Mr. Wilson believes, however, that they have made the same mistake that the American liquor interests made—they declined to tread loyally in any kind of middle path. They opposed every restriction, and as their taxes increased they decreased the quality of the beer, thus making enemies among their consumers. He says that Mr. Lloyd George at heart is a prohibitionist, and would, if he had the power, do his best to curtail or abolish the drinking of liquor in England.

Church was over, the congregation filed slowly out and gathered in little chattering groups in the churchyard. Presently the vicar came up and joined a select little party. He introduced an old sea captain to the leading light of the village, a wealthy Mr. Smith.

"You must have seen each other in church today," said the beaming vicar. "Sure," said the old salt. "E was sleeping in the next bunk to me."

The Highway of The Giants

How the Construction of a Forest Road Caused the Organization of a League to Save the Oldest Living Things on Earth.

Along the western slope of the Coast Range in California stand the oldest trees in the world. Not only are they the oldest trees, but they are the oldest living things on earth—the Redwoods of California. Bordering the California State Highway in Mendocino, Humboldt, and Del Norte counties, these giant trees many of them estimated at from 3,000 to 7,000 years old, form a wonder archway for the tourist, travelling from Sausalito, in Marion county, to Eureka.

A queer situation has arisen in California as the result of building hard-surfaced roads, which is not altogether an unmixed blessing. With the coming of improved highways in the vicinity of the Redwoods, lumbering operations have grown enormously because the good roads made it possible to get out the giant logs by the use of the heavy motor truck.

Thus, we have a situation where good roads built through wonderful scenic forests are the very means of destroying the forests with their natural beauty and grandeur. To combat this wholesale deforestation of the finest forests in the world the "Save the Redwoods League" has been organized in California for several years with very gratifying results.

Funds have been raised and several groves have been bought from lumbermen to save them from the axe. Legislation has been started for legislation that will provide an appropriation that will preserve the Redwoods, that border the State Highway for so many miles.

Public sentiment is coming more and more to the view that the true value of a highway lies not only in hard surface, adequate drainage and marking, but also in the natural scenic beauty and charm of environment.

Roads are pathways of pleasure and enjoyment, as well as economic arteries, and the preservation and conservation of beauty should be as highly considered as the problems of grading, surfacing, or drainage.—Highway Magazine.

MY GARDEN

In the calm clear light of the morning I look at my garden fair,
The blossoms all glistening with dew drops,
And the humming birds are there.

At noontide the drowsy poppies
Are hanging their heads in the sun,
And the languorous, odorous roses
Awake at a day begun.

At sunset time my garden
Is bathed in a light divine,
All glittering and golden and radiant,
Refulgent at even time.

But sweetest of all at night time
Does the peace of my garden come;
It is mystery and enchantment,
It is rest and peace and home.

Brigadier-General Bell Inspects 93rd Battery

Brigadier-General Bell, C.M.G., D.S.O., accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C. and Major Edwards held the annual inspection of the 93rd Battery C.F.A. under the command of Major R. F. Barnes, on Tuesday, July 18th. The troops were first inspected by the General and then carried on with gunnery, gun drill and signalling under the command of Captain Scougall and Lieut. Walshe. After this a short tactical scheme was carried out involving taking up a position and engaging a hostile battery.

Owing to reductions in the Militia Estimates it was impossible to have the whole Battery mounted and only the Battery Staff took part.

The General expressed himself as being well pleased with the proceedings and thought a very creditable showing had been made, having in view the difficult conditions under which the instructors had to work.

A firing detachment consisting of 32 men will proceed to Sarcee Camp at Calgary next Monday night to complete the firing practice for this year. A number of vacancies have occurred and any person desirous of joining the Battery and going to camp in Calgary should get in touch with the commanding officer. The rate of pay is $1.25 per day for gunners and $1.50 or the pay of their rank if they have had service with the C.E.F.

The detachment will go to Calgary on the night of Monday, July 24th, a special sleeping car being provided and will arrive in Calgary on Tuesday morning, where breakfast will be provided.

The camp will continue until July 30th and the detachment will return home on Sunday night, arriving at Macleod at 5 a.m. the sleeping car will be put off here and the troops can remain on board until 8 a.m.

Rathwell

Wheat cutting will be general in Manitoba by the first week in August it is stated.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson and family have returned from a most enjoyable outing spent at Waterton Lakes.

H. Crowson will fill a preaching appointment at Claresholm next Sunday, both morning and evening, taking the place of the Rev. Mr. Webber.

On Sunday morning next, July 23rd, Mr. J. Ritson, of Australia, will preach at Rathwell School House at 11 a.m. Turn out and welcome our distinguished visitor.

Mr. H. Crowson reports that while visiting in the Allenfield district last week he found in a garden owned by Mr. Tom Purdy, a patch of tame strawberries of large size, the vines being loaded with the ripening fruit. He went out (unknown to the owner) and examined the plants and found the fruit was real and not tacked on. Some of the fruit, smothered with cream, was afterwards served up at the tea table and was found to be delicious, possessing a very pleasant flavor. This is in Alberta and not in B.C. Mr. Crowson adds: "What shall we live to see produced here in the fruit line!"

The Rathwell people held their annual picnic on Wednesday afternoon at Pott's Bottom. There were all kinds of sports and lots of eats. The tug of war between the married women and young girls resulted in favor of the latter, the married women being, we are told, dragged all over the ground by their more vigorous opponents. The tug of war between old men and boys resulted in a win for the youths. A number of those taking in the outing spent a part of their time in picking Saskatoon berries which are plentiful in spots this season. Later in the evening a number of the lads and lassies drove over to the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke and demanded the use of the hard-wood floor in one of the large rooms, which was cheerfully granted, a pleasant little dance followed, the music being furnished by the Misses Bella and Bertha Clarke on the piano. Altogether a most enjoyable day was spent.

Little Dot—"Our minister prays ever so much louder than yours does."
Little Bub—"I don't care if he does. Our minister jumps the highest when he preaches. So there, now."

Sambo—"I've tough, I done cut me fingah nails wif a ax an' brush my teef wif a file."

Rastus—"Say, boy, I've tougher. Why twice a week I done shave myself wif a blow torch."

"Does longevity run in your family, Mrs. Spriggs?"

"That it does, dear. Why, my brother Joe was six-foot two, and Albert he was six-foot seven, and father was six-foot four. Couldn't 'ave much more longevity than that, could you?"

Strolling along the quays of New York harbor, an Irishman came across the wooden barricade which is placed around the enclosure where immigrants suspected of suffering from contagious disease are isolated.

"Phwat's this boarding for?" he enquired of a bystander.

"Oh," was the reply, "that's to keep out fever and things like that, you know."

"Indeed," said Pat. "O've often heard of the Board of Health, but it's the first time I've seen it."

BRITAIN'S HONOR AND THE COST

There is no feeling in Britain that her war debts to the United States will be cancelled by that nation and the country is preparing to pay off the interest on the huge loan. At the same time there is little hope in Britain that the debts owing to her will be met. It is characteristic of the British integrity of character that it should adopt this attitude and the world honors her for it. The cost, however, is terrible, and although the burden of taxation is heavy now the full effects will not be felt until the second and third generations. Every day the newspapers announce sales of great English estates. In the opinion of a leading Canadian financier recently returned from England, the super-tax and death duty are such that but few of the big estates will be able to hold together for more than three generations. When the holder of a big estate dies either a mortgage has to be placed on the property or priceless pictures or heirlooms must be sold to raise the necessary money to pay the death duty. These heirlooms mostly go to America and, although it may not be realized by many, they are in reality part payment of the war debt. A fairer way of levying the death duty would be to make it payable over a series of years, when it might, perhaps, be met out of income. The Chancellor of the Exchequer needs the money, however, and no such alleviation is entertained. Many of "the stately homes of England" are crumbling to ruin. Some of the most magnificent of the residences, their upkeep impossible to bear and their sale prohibited by entail, are deserted, with only a caretaker to look after them and the hand of decay is already heavy upon them. Appeals have been made for the nation to take over these places and to buy for the national museums famous pictures and objects of art that are forced into the market. The country is too heavily saddled with debt to do this, and so historic and storied buildings continue to fall into decay and the treasures they have housed for generations are being transported across the Atlantic to adorn, if inappropriately, the homes of American millionaires.

PE-RU-NA COMPANY, 344 St. Paul St., Montreal

Of course Britain could do no other than default on these debts. These say in effect: "We dare not impose heavier taxation; the people cannot bear it. We have not the money to pay our debts. You must wait until better times come." If better times do not come the debts go by default, as they did with the Southern States of America. No nation is going to war to force another nation to pay its debts. Canada would not go to war with Roumania. Neither would England go to war with France, nor the United States with England for that purpose. Englishmen, however, are proud of their honor, and so are striving with all their power to meet their obligations, albeit the task is heart-breaking. It is a magnificent example to all the nations and a demonstration that, after all, there is something finer in the world than gold.

THE SOVIET AND CHRISTIANITY

In the Hague Conference, as in the Genoa Conference, the representatives of Russia have been audacious enough to attempt the leading role. They demand where they ought to plead, and they withhold where they ought to concede. Litvinoff is as stiff as war. Tchitcherin. They state the conditions on which Russia will co-operate for her own economic reconstruction and prescribe those to which the salvaging nations must conform. The other powers are called upon to guarantee a huge loan to Russia, who on her side will grant certain concessions and will agree not to repudiate the public debt contracted in pre-Soviet times, but declines to make reparation to private parties.

While the Soviet is taking this high stand in regard to external policy, it is proceeding in defiance of common humanity and Christianity in regard to internal policy. The All-Russian Bolsheviks Executive Committee has turned to the work of completing the destruction of the Russian Church, its persecution and spoliation of that Church had gone great lengths before the outside world recovered touch with Russia. The rifling of the places of worship and seizure of sacred vessels were resisted by the clergy, many making the sacrifice of their lives in that struggle. The sentence of death has just been pronounced on eleven of these devoted ecclesiastics, one of them being the Petrograd Metropolitan. Fifty-three others are to suffer various terms of imprisonment. Is Christendom to look on idly while this persecution is in progress? Are the Christian nations of the world to serve the Soviet by guaranteeing a five billion pound loan to be used by these abolishers of the Christian faith?

The Bolsheviks are determined to uproot Christianity as a hindrance to the growth of their abominable system is manifest from the course they have been taking almost from the beginning of their revolution. There is a power in Christian teaching that they cannot hope to make head against until they have destroyed the Church. To the protest of the Archbishop of Canterbury the Soviet Government replied insultingly. It is time the civilized powers considered, not Russia and its over-bearing attitude towards them, but the causes that Soviet Russia is striving to destroy and the people it is destroying.

UNCONQUERED CANCER

One dread disease that medical science is not coping with is cancer, which continues to increase. From 1912 to 1918 there were more than a million and a half recorded deaths from this cause, an average of 71.6 per 100,000 population. In that small part of Africa included in the registration area the death rate was only half of that for North America where the rate was less than 66. There are striking variations in different parts of the United States, Massachusetts having a rate of 83.6 while that of Kentucky was only 48.3. The highest death rate appears to be in the most densely populated and highly civilized portions of the world, England and Wales with 94 and Holland with 93 having the highest rates. Sir William Veno, an English authority, says that cancer appears to be a disease of civilization, although it is known in savage countries. Yet it does seem to keep pace with civilization. Sir William says: "Somewhere undoubtedly 'in the civilized mode of living—dietary, habits and customs—is the key to the origin of the disease.'"

In Japan, where it was practically unknown fifty years ago, it is almost as prevalent as in Europe, despite the fact that Japanese civilization is much different from ours.

Scientists everywhere are studying cancer, and in England there has arisen a demand for fresh studies on new lines—a re-examination of all the formerly held theories and a review of all the established facts concerning the disease, which are not many. A few years ago it was supposed that radium was a specific for cancer. This hope has now been abandoned for it is known that only certain phases of it can be successfully treated by this means. The Finns rays were found to be of value in certain cases of superficial cancer. There have been hundreds of serums from which great things were expected, perhaps the last to come before the public being the Glover serum, upon which, we understand, the discoverer is still at work. Numerous are the things that have at various times been supposed to cause the disease, among them being alcohol, tobacco, tea, sugar, milk, fish, too much sunlight, lack of exercise, nervousness, over-eating and under-eating. The truth is that medical science does not know what causes cancer, and except for the comparatively few cases that can be treated by the application of radium, acknowledges no cure but a surgical operation. The great trouble with surgery as applied to cancer is that in the great majority of cases the disease is not recognized until its ravages have proceeded so far that they are inoperable. A great percentage of cancers could be cured if they were diagnosed in time and a great help to early diagnosis would be the practice of people being regularly examined by a doctor whether they felt well or ill, on much the same principle that to have their decayed teeth extracted or filled but to have them kept from decaying. One cause of the heavy death rate from cancer undoubtedly lies in the fact that thousands of sufferers will waste their money and imperil their lives by taking some nostrum that can do no good, and that at best—or worst—merely removes the symptoms until the disease has progressed so far that it is beyond the power of surgery to eradicate.

The gasoline companies are explaining why the price has gone up again, but reports from the United States are that surplus crude oil is being added to, even now, and will be tremendous by autumn. The story of scarcity does not seem to work out well this season.

A Western Sheriff made a seizure for a debt of some hundreds of thousands of dollars and all that he found was a stove and a refrigerator. This should have satisfied the feelings of both classes of creditors.

Residents on the shores of Lake Ontario have had an unwelcome visitation of dead fish. The political shores are also suffering from a like trouble.

"Well, Sam, how did you find your father?" Sam (who has been home on a visit): "With the help of the sheriff and two bloodhounds, sah.—Ex change."

Here and There

There is a shortage of coal on the great lakes and shipping may be tied up in consequence.

A Siberian wolfhound is being taken into the Mackenzie river basin country for the purpose of improving the strain of sled dogs in use in that far northern country. The animal stands 31 inches high and weighs nearly 115 pounds. A similar effort made several years ago by a Calgary man who took in Russian wolfhounds for this purpose, but the attempt proved a failure the dogs being unsuited to the climate and the work required of them. The present attempt, it is thought, will be successful.

It is thought that a special session of the Alberta legislature will be held in the very near future to consider what action shall be taken concerning the formation of a wheat board.

While Brockville, (Ont.), golfers were taking part in a foursome at Carlton Place, a crow which had alighted in the rough where a "topped" ball had been driven, emerged with the ball in its grasp. The bird being pursued dropped the ball on the next green, enabling the player to make the hole "in two." Peculiar situations often arise in the playing of this game. Not long ago a player drove a ball which in its flight knocked down and killed a bird which was in the air and unseen when the ball was played.

Sheriff Duvall and twelve others were killed in a fight at the Standard mine of the Richmond Coal Company, West Virginia.

Terms of sale to be 20 per cent. cash at the time of the sale and the balance according to the terms and conditions to be made known at the time of sale or upon application to the vendor's solicitors.

The above property will be offered for sale subject to a sealed reserved bid and free from all encumbrances, save: Taxes for the current year.

The vendor is informed that the above property is situated about 17 miles from the Station of Brocket, and that there is a good water supply from a spring in a coulee in the vicinity. It is situated about half a mile from a Post Office, and one and one-half miles from a school. There are about 75 acres under cultivation, the soil being a black loam with clay sub-soil. There are no other improvements on the property excepting about 1¼ miles of fencing.

For further particulars and conditions of sale, apply to Messrs. Macleod, Robertson, Smith & Co., Canada Life Building, Calgary, Alberta. Refer to File No. 26050-WGE.

Dated at Calgary, in the Province of Alberta, this 27th day of April, A.D. 1922.

Approved: W. FORBES, Registrar. 13-3t

In an eddy two miles from the spot where bloodhounds followed her trail down to the water's edge. She had gone to the river to get water with which to wash her hair and climbing onto a large rock to fill her pail is thought to have got dizzy and fell in to the stream being unable to reach the bank. The funeral was held on Friday last at Cardston and was largely attended the dead girl having been a universal favorite.

The hay crop is very short in the north country this year and the farmers there are selling their best cows as low as $22 per head.

The western part of the district got half an inch of rainfall Saturday evening last.

"Even a wet season doesn't stop the demand for irrigation. It's another case of 'a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.'"—Lethbridge Herald.

And now the school boy home for his holidays is called upon to keep the potato vines free from beetles, a job that has always taken the joy out of life for the boy who wanted to go in swimming.

E. S. Sill, of the C.P.R. right-of-way says that should a recurrence of the good seasons set in the line south and west will be completed. This official was in town Thursday last in connection with the clearing up of the right-of-way and getting it in shape to pass the annual inspection.

I. M. Bright—"See that guy over there? Well, he is a human dynamo." M. T. Beam—"How's that?" I. M. Bright—"Why, everything he has on is charged."

HYMN OF PAN.

We come, we come;
From the forests and highlands
From the river-girt islands,
Where loud waves are dumb,
Listening to my sweet pipings.
The wind in the reeds and rushes,
The bees on the bells of thyme,
The birds on the myrtle bushes,
The cicale above in the lime,
And the lizards below in the grass,
Were as silent as ever old Tmolus was,
Listening to my sweet pipings.

Liquid Peneus was flowing,
And all dark Tempe lay
In Pelion's shadow, outgrowing
The light of the dying day,
Speeded by my sweet pipings.
The Sileni and Sylvans and Fauns,
And the Nymphs of the woods and waves,
To the edge of the moist river-lawns
And the brink of the dewy caves,
And all that did then attend and follow
Were silent with love, as you now,
Apollo,
With envy of my sweet pipings.

I sang of the dancing stars,
I sang of the daedal earth,
And of heaven, and the giant wars,
And love, and death, and birth,
And then I changed my pipings—
Singing how down the vale of Maenalus
I pursued a maiden, and clasped a reed:
Gods and men, we were all deluded
thus;
It breaks in our bosom, and then we bleed.

All wept—as I think both ye now would,
If envy or rage had not frozen your blood—
At the sorrow of my sweet pipings.
—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

TOYS, NOISE AND BOYS.

When I was but a little girl,
I dearly loved my toys
And lots of fun I always had,
My mother called it—Noise.

But now I am a grown-up girl,
And have no use for toys
Yet lots of fun I always have,
My mother calls it—boys.

Oh Mother, were you ever young?
Used you to play with toys?
However, did you find my Dad,
Unless you loved the—boys!

—Mrs. F. E. Kortwright.

IN PRAISE OF ONE.

O little gods of wilderness,
Be good to one who sees
The fingers of the wind caress
The ruffled locks of trees;
Bend all the wilding wood to her
To blossom to her hand;
O little gods, be good to her,
Whose love you understand.

O wilderness, take heart again,
And welcome one who hears
The gentle harper in the rain
Harp with a sound of tears;
Bid sunlight fall like wine on her
And rainbow arcs entice
The colored webs to shine on her
From looms of Paradise.

HUNTING SONG

Rise! sleep no more, 'tis a noble morn,
The dew hangs thick on the fringed thorn,
And the frost goes back like a beaten
hound,
Under the streaming, the streaming ground.
Behold where the billowy clouds flow
by,
And leave us alone in the clear green
sky,
Our horses are ready and steady, so
hol!
I'm gone like a dart from the Tartar's
bow,
Hark! Hark! Tally-ho!
Who calleth the maiden morn,
From her sleep in the woods and the stubble corn,
The horn! the merry sweet ring of the hunter's horn,
Tally-ho! Hark away!

Now, through the copse, where the fox
is found,
And o'er the brook, at a mighty bound
And o'er the highlands and o'er the low
O'er furrows, o'er meadows, the hunters go.

Away, as a hawk flies at its prey,
So flies the hunter away, away,
From the burst of the cover, till set of sun,
When the red fox dies, and the day is done.

Hark! hark! Tally-ho!
What sound on the wind is borne?
'Tis the conquering voice of the hunter's
horn,
Tally-ho!

"Say, Bill, did you read this about the fellow in the theatre during an oriental act where the odor of incense caused him to complain to the usher?"
"No, what did he say?"
"Said he smelled punk," and the usher said—"Never mind. I won't put

"Hello! Hello! Is this you, Abe?"
"Sure, it's me."
"This is Abe Cohen I'm talking to?"
"Yes, yes, what you want?"
"Well, Abe, it's like this, I want to borrow fifty dollars for—"

"All right, I'll tell him as soon as

Olsen Creek Stampede and Races

The Olsen Creek Stampede was the best of its kind ever held in this country. The management, Messrs. S. Schnarr, F. A. Hobbs, J. McAllister and A. Anderson, are to be congratulated on the success of the day.

There was no lack of events to interest the public and it was most of the time like a two-ring circus—a double event on—bucking and ball or racing and ball. There was no delay at the post and Starter Joe Hicks got the fields off to good starts at the first attempts, in all races but one.

It is estimated that there were about one thousand people on the grounds during the day all of whom were loud in their praises of the day's sports.

The judges in the horse races were J. McNabb, R. Valle and Charles England.

Special mention should be made of James Hunter who, although but a young man making his first appearance, was given the worst of a bad lot of both horses and steers, which he took with grim courage and an evident determination to do or die. He it was who took the small black cow, it being the unanimous opinion that she was the fastest thing ever yet seen. He stuck to his mount until the circingle came over her shoulders in going into the lake.

The 1st event was a half-mile horse race in which was Hobbs' bay horse Dan, W. Adams' Giggas, and two other horses, one of which left the track at the head of the stretch and did not finish. In this there was a race for blood and two protests were entered and sustained by the judge, F. Tatham, who set both horses back, so that the last horse to finish got 1st money, Giggas 2nd.

The Lady's Race was a splendid race and was a head and head race from start to finish and was won by Miss J. Bell, with Miss McAllister 2nd.

Several other races all well contested were run, the turning race with nine entries had to be split into three sets and the winner of each ran in the final, which was won by an Indian.

The bucking was the best ever staged here and persons who have attended large stampedes say that none of them ever had the pep that the Olsen Creek stock had and there are no better riders than those who competed. Two men were thrown, saddle and all, one was bucked into the lake and two others were unloaded in the water.

The steer riding was very snappy, particularly one small black cow who had all the tricks of the trade down pat and had the speed of lightning. She came out with a bawl and sun-fished well, changing ends every jump and landed her rider in the cooling waters of the lake. He said he jumped. Well, we do not blame him, we would jump ourselves, but we think the cow helped.

The riding contest was won by F. Thompson, with J. Hunter second, in both horse and steer riding.

The baseball money went to Macleod as they won two games—from Spring Point, 12-2, and Fishburn, 11-0. W. Adams' Giggas, R. Jackson's Minnie

Programme and Winners

Pony Race—S. Schnarr's Pet, J. McAllister's Trixie, F. Plowman's Minny and Pellow Moutash's Spot.

Saddle Horse—F. Hobbs' Tom Cat, W. Adams' Giggas, R. Jackson's Minny and Thompson's Beaver. Beaver left the track.

Three-eights Mile Dash—J. McAllister of Buck, F. Hobbs Tomcat 1st, Elgin Shorty 4.

One mile novelty: F. Hobbs' Slip-away 1st at quarter, half and mile; Giggas the three-quarters.

Lady's Race—Won by Miss Bell with Miss McAllister 2nd. Two others also ran.

A delightful dance which followed in the evening was held in Mr. Anderson's large barn and more than 300 persons danced until the wee sma' hours of the morning. H. Stone, of Beaver Creek, supplied the music for the dance.

The gate receipts amounted to over $225.00.

GRAZING ON DOMINION FOREST RESERVES

On the non-agricultural lands set aside as forest reserves there are considerable areas, which have been denuded of timber but which with protection will, in time, bear another crop. In the meantime, that the crops of native grasses which they bear may be made useful as possible to the surrounding settlements, the grazing of cattle, horses and sheep is permitted under proper regulations. There are also other areas in the midst of forest reserves, especially in the Rocky Mountains, which while unsuited either for agriculture or for tree growth, are composed of fair pasture land. To these also stock is admitted. The settlers in the West have readily availed themselves of these privileges. In all the provinces the number of stock associations has increased which is indicative of the growing favor with which stock-owners view the co-operative use of forest range.—Annual Report of the Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

You can't drive a nail with a sponge no matter how much you soak it.

Side Trips From Macleod

Many of our citizens take side trips from and out of Macleod and with a desire to get their experience and knowledge of our surrounding district, the editor has interviewed several with the following results:

We took a trip over the main road to Granum to see the crops and visit Granum. What impressed us most was the poor condition of the road, lined in many places with weeds, the road and hill leading to the Norman Grier ranch, for a highway, was in terrible shape. After passing this grand farm and following the highway about two miles we came to a sign reading "Autos Beware—this road is filled with sand" and naturally not passable to cars. Going through Granum we noticed a sign reading: "Speed Limit 12 Miles," but as the roads were a bit rough at that time we did not wish to take advantage of this privilege. There are some grand crops in this district, some of which will go 40 bushels to the acre and not a weed in the crops. The weed inspector should get busy and see that weeds are burned and cleaned up along this highway, also the roads put in better shape. With tourists passing over this highway to and from Banff and Waterton Lakes Park, we wish them to have the best possible opinion of our district.

Trip to Lundbreck on a Sunday
Left Macleod by train at 5:20 in the morning, this place being 42 miles west of Macleod. Here is where you catch the genuine Mountain Rainbow Trout. We stopped at the Windsor Hotel. Tom Madden is the manager—it is worth a trip to the mountains to meet him; courteous treatment is part of his first name—there is no cleaner and better managed hotel in western Canada, and his dining room is a treat on a Sunday trip to Lundbreck. And a visit to the falls a mile and a half west of the town is time well spent—along the river below this hotel one will see cars from the four points of the compass parked. Fishing, bathing or viewing the wonderful scenery are the attractions. After fishing all day we had the treat of our lives with a well cooked and real clean dinner at the Windsor Hotel. After dinner we heard there was a radio outfit in town and expressed a wish to hear a concert over it. Tom Madden in his desire to please his guests, made arrangements whereby our desires were gratified. Mr. A. Densmuir owns this set, which is an Amroid, two stages of detection and three of amplification, using single and double aerial. We heard the concert given by the Morning Albertan as clear as though it were taking place in the same building with the door partly closed, every word being distinct. At 9:30 the correct time was given and important news such as the collision that took place, was broadcasted. For a sacred concert it was a peach. After hearing Calgary he turned a knob and we heard part of the concert from Seattle. He has heard Denver, Col., Great Falls, Montana, Toledo, Ohio, and other points. What impressed us most was the courteous manner they treated strangers within their gates, and the nice manner in which they speak of their town and their neighbors. We were also informed that the bootleggers always passed through this town at a very high rate of speed in the early hours of the morning. They always kept the lamp in the C.P.R. waiting room filled with oil.

A young aide-de-camp at a great party approached Archbishop Whately and said, "Does your Grace know the difference between an ass and an archbishop?" "No," was the grave answer. Then the youth went on, "An ass has a cross on his back, but an archbishop has a cross on his breast." "Very good," said the archbishop. "Now, will you tell me what is the difference between a young aide-de-camp, like yourself, and an ass?" "I don't know," said the youth. "Neither do I," said the archbishop, and walked away.

WHEN USING WILSON'S
FLY PADS

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, raise one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required in another room.

The right way to use Wilson's Fly Pads

Mr. Roberts, a banker in a western town, was very bald, and was in the habit of wearing his hat in the bank during business hours as a protection from flies in warm weather and from cold breezes in winter.

Every week a negro employee of the bank presented a cheque and drew his wages. One day, as he was putting the money in a worn and greasy wallet, the banker chanced to pass by, and asked:

"Look here, John, why don't you let some of that money stay in the bank and keep an account with us?"

"Well, sah," replied the negro, leaning toward the banker and gazing curiously at the Panama hat he wore, "I've always feared. You see, sah, you look like you was always ready to start somewhere."

LOCAL & PERSONAL

The return match between Macleod and Lethbridge was played off on the square last evening. There was a good turnout of fans and the onlookers were treated to a splendid exhibition of baseball. At the end of the ninth innings the score stood 9 all. A tenth inning was played to decide the game, but neither side scoring a run and it by this time becoming dark, the game was called off. There were moments during the course of the game when excitement ran high.

A strong smell of escaping gas at a point near the McKenzie Bridge led a person of an enquiring turn of mind to follow up the "scent," the leak in the main which was quite serious being finally located south of the bridge. It is thought the vibration of the bridge caused the trouble in the pipe line. The party discovering the leak touched a match to the gas which caused quite a flame. The local manager is wonder who set fire to the gas.

It may be stated that the department of immigration at Ottawa has appointed an agent (with salary and expenses paid) to work on the colonization of the irrigation districts. This is a departure from the usual custom, as the immigration department has always avoided appointing agents to work for any particular section. The agent appointed is now working in the Western States and it is hoped that with the efforts which are being made that there will soon be some tangible results.

The secretary of the South Macleod Irrigation District has received a letter from the minister of railways and telephones at Edmonton stating that in view of the fact that the territory already opened up for colonization on the Lethbridge Northern and United Districts is large, the government did not see their way clear to start work on the South Macleod Project until such time as we (the government) are sure as to what success we may have in colonization of the other districts. If relief is necessary this winter it will have to be arranged in some other way.

A delightful birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. K. Underwood on Wednesday, July 19th in honor of the celebration of their daughter Beryl's sixth birthday. A large number of small guests were present and numerous games were played until 5 o'clock, when those present sat down to a splendid repast of the usual summer "goodies" including ice cream, jellies, fruits, candies and last but by no means least a wonderful birthday cake, which was daintily cut by the young hostess. The table was charmingly decorated in pink effect with carnations, sweet peas and roses to match, and fancy pink rosettes and ribbon. Beryl was the recipient of a large number of beautiful birthday gifts from all present, also she received many presents from relatives far and near. The following little guests were present: Misses Mona Grier, Mollie Routledge, Rochelle Dunn, Laura Hamilton, Peggy Huntley, Gwen Pearson, Eileen Pearson, Verna Pearson, Betty Mackintosh, Dorothy Milbourn, Elaine Smith, Florence Baker, Margaret Hamilton, Sophie and Verdon Middleton and Ruthie Buckwell.

A story is told of a woman whose husband had one day been away from home much longer than usual. She waited patiently, however, when, to her surprise and alarm, a band of ruffians rode up and dismounted a little distance from the hut, and, approaching her, the leader of the party exclaimed apologetically:

"We've come to tell yer, madam, that we've lynched yer husband. We admit we've hung the wrong man, so you've got the laugh on us there."

To Save Animals From Poisoned Bait

Provincial Veterinarian Tells Farmers How to Overcome Poisoning

A despatch from Edmonton reads: In several places in the southern part of the province it has been found that cattle and other animals have been poisoned by eating the bait for grasshoppers which has been scattered in fields. Since the bait contains arsenic, Dr. Percy Talbot, the provincial veterinarian, has issued a statement, following a study of the matter, in which he says that the most successful treatment is an antidote of iron which should be administered in the form of a soft mush and must be freshly made and administered at once.

Since, however, preparation of such an antidote would not be practical for farmers who had to drive long distances to obtain the ingredients, other remedies have been tried. It has been found that a mixture of ferric hydrate and magnesia will act promptly and effectively. For this preparation it is necessary to keep on hand in separate bottles two ounces ferric sulphate solution, diluted with four ounces water. 180 grains magnesia made into a smooth mixture, with half a pint of water. When needed the two should be mixed and shaken until a mash results. This should be administered in large quantities at short intervals and followed with emetics such as alum, epsom or sulphate of zinc. The fact should not be forgotten that large doses of lime water, olive oil, carbon oil or mucilaginous drinks, as oatmeal gruel are helpful, and if there is well marked prostration warmth should be applied to the animal by means of hot blankets.

"BRING ME A PENNY THAT I MAY SEE IT."

(Mark 12-15.)

No, not a penny owned the Lord
When crafty skill and swelling hate
Sought to transform His gracious word
Against Caesar's power and Roman State.

He had not where to lay His head,
O ye, who hunger and who thirst,
O ye, who, disappointed, led
In darkest hour to see the worst.

"Though He was rich,"—transcending thought!

He did to our estate come down;
And to sore stress He oft was brought,
That we, through Him, might gain a crown.

That we are rich in nobler fame
Who share in poverty His love.
He made Himself of no great name,
But took a servant's form to prove.

O Glorious Lord Thou art no more
The Nazarine, despised as least;
Thou art acclaimed from shore to shore,
King, Advocate, and great High Priest.

Heaven's thunderous welcome hailed
Thee King,
The Everlasting Doors gave way,
The Gates were raised, and Thou didst bring

Thy wounds, as trophies, to display.
Yet, "This same Jesus," still, Thou art,
Though seated on the Father's Throne;

Saviour and Friend! Thy human heart
Moves with all feelings to our own.

CANADIANS START TREE PLANTING

Throughout Canada the greatest activity and enthusiasm has prevailed this year in regard to forest tree planting. It is safe to say that more trees have been planted in the spring of 1922 than in any previous spring in the history of Canada. In the eastern provinces and on the prairies, the cities, towns, and villages have planted trees by the thousand along the streets, and in the parks, and where provincial highways have been constructed trees have been planted along these under a systematized plan. These are all shade and ornamental trees and they are planted for aesthetic rather than economic reasons. At the same time on the prairies, especially the planting of trees in urban centres helps along the movement in rural districts. But the movement has not ended there. In addition to the five or six million trees sent out by the Indian Head and Saskatoon Dominion forest nursery stations to farmers to plant shelter-belts all over the prairies and those sent out for like purposes and to restore woodlots from the Ontario and Quebec nursery stations at St. Williams and Berthierville, respectively, there has been a much larger planting and seeding of purely forest trees than ever before. The Dominion Government Forestry Branch has planted trees at Petawawa in Ontario, forest experiment station and on a number of its forest reserves in the prairie provinces, to a total number of 150,000; several of the big pulp and lumber companies have done considerable planting, and there has been a forward movement in the municipal forest plantations in Quebec and Ontario. In the latter province the scheme of county and township forests devised last year was put into active operation. In Simcoe county the first tree in the county forest plot of one thousand acres, near Camp Borden, was planted by the Warden with appropriate ceremonies. It is to be expected the whole plot will be planted in ten years. In the same county two townships and one village plan'd plots of ten acres each, and in Norfolk county, twenty thousand seedlings as a beginning were planted on the municipal forest. Other townships set out trees and the counties of York, Ontario, and Durham, are laying out nurseries and getting ready to start next year.

CANADIAN GUIDES ARE AMONG THE FINEST

Discouraging in The Nineteenth Century about Canadian guides, it is the man of French extraction, the descendant of Parkman's coureurs de bois, whom John Murray Gibbon most admires. The type is noted for courage, strength and endurance. Joe, with a pack of 300 pounds, "walked faster that I could walk with nothing but a fishing rod." There was Joseph Paul, guide for the North-West Company, who picked up a sugar barrel filled with bullets by a playful storekeeper, "and let it fall on the counter, smashing the wood-work to pieces and breaking the barrels so that the bullets spilled into the cellar." In the bush Joe had an appetite that matched his strength. A gargantuan eater was he: Fifteen eggs a day, five to each meal; bacon, fish, pork, and beans, steaks and flapjacks. "Then he complained that he could not eat because of indigestion." If the French-Canadian guide is so brave and hardy, and wears so well, it is because he comes of heroic stock. To the end of the French dominion in Canada no English names stand out in the opening up of the wilderness. It was the colonists of New France who sailed up the St. Lawrence, explored the Mattawa, pushed into Lake Nipissing, portaged down into the Great Lakes, and were soon trading on the Mississippi and the Missouri, while the English colonists still hugged the seaboard, says the New York Times.

The Work of the Voyageurs.

The Frenchman hunted, trapped and were one with the Indians, whose women they lived with. After the passing of New France there is a procession of English and Scotch explorers in the chronicles of the time: Samuel Hearne, Sir Alexander MacKenzie, Simon Fraser, David Thompson, Milton and Cheadle. The Rev. A. G. Morice, in his "Dictionnaire Historique des Canadiens de l'Ouest" asks who did the hard work of the expeditions led by these travelers and promoters. The answer is, the voyageurs, who had penetrated and mapped the wilderness and were brothers of the Indian. Simon Fraser owed much of his success to the half-breed, Jean Baptiste Boucher, known as Wacanan by the Crees. On three expeditions Charles Legace was the guide and interpreter for David Thompson. The Hudson Bay Company found Alexis Bonami Lepesance indispensable as driver of its bateaux in the fur trade, a man as strong as a bear and of a vitality no hardship could wear down. Toussaint Charbonneau, a guide of the North-West Company, who on all explorers' lists in the early part of the 19th century. For river service one French-Canadian, John Jacob Astor declared, was worth three Americans. In Parkman's "Oregon Trail" the French-Canadian hunters are deservedly honored. Mr. Gibbon says that the French woodsman of the present day is admirably depicted in the Francois Paradis of Louis Hemon's "Marla Chapdelaine."

New Brunswick Celebrities.

There are also sterling guides among the men of British descent. "If any one," says Mr. Gibbon, "were to ask a New Brunswicker who is the best known native of the province, he would probably name the guide, Henry Braithwaite, who, in spite of over 80 years, still calls and tracks the moose with the energy of youth." Other famous guides in New Brunswick not of French blood are Adam Moore, Arthur Pringle, Harry Allen and Claude Knapp, names well known to American sportsmen. A character whom Mr. Gibbon met on the Upper Tobique was Van. He had built a cabin near a lake round which there was a large clearing:

"Must have taken some work to clear this bush," I remarked. "Not a bit," he said. "All it cost me was a little salt. It was the deer that did it—a shot of salt at the root of each bush, and hey cleared up the whole yard."

Must Be Treated as Equals.

The Canadian guides respect themselves, and must be treated as equals by the rich sportsmen, "even though they may out of courtesy serve you first at the campfire and sit at a separate mess." Their scorn for a valet, or any other satellite, is unprintable. A silent lot of men, one must be careful not to intrude upon their reserve. In Quebec most of the licensed guides are Eastern Canadians, half-breeds or Indians. Ontario attracts 25,000 non-resident anglers every year. "For the Indian the Anglo-Saxon guide in Ontario has frequently a good-humored but not well-justified contempt." The Indian cooks poorly, is none too clean, but he's the better hunter. "The Indian," said a white guide, "never seems to get lost. I guess the Lord gave him the sense of location." The Canadian guides have figured a good deal in "red-blooded" contemporary novels, but they don't recognize themselves. Said one of them:

"What can I do with fiction? Soon or than read one of them books, I'd wash windows or kill time in some other damned way. Now newspapers is something different. You can get ideas from a newspaper."

The Best of North America.

Mr. Gibbon has found the Rocky Mountain guides, who have much to do with pack horses, the most original and robust in profanity, but it is to be said for them that their "capacity for swearing is more than equalled by their capacity for hard work." The sportsman's paradise is in the northern areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, for there the moose are abundant, black bear are numerous, fish swarm in lakes and streams and caribou roam in herds. The local guides are rough diamonds, but fine fellows. "These Canadian guides," the writer says in conclusion, "represent the most virile element in North America, and deserve more recognition than it is usually their fortune to obtain."

UTILIZE OUR IRON ORE

The statement by Mr. Jones, of the Algoma Steel Company, that he could produce pig iron from Canadian ore for $1.57 less per ton than from American ores, opens up an interesting subject. The difficulty is to get the Canadian ore at as low a price as the Minnesota ore. The problem is one of concentration of perhaps a subsidy on ore production until an iron industry is built up, and private capital can handle the business on its own basis. Ontario's iron resources are ample to warrant the encouragement of home iron mining.

The Loon Lake iron range has an estimated quantity of 25,000,000 tons of ore. The Mattawan and Kaministiquia ranges have 150,000,000 tons, the Aitkoka range 25,000,000 tons, the Nipigon and Long Lake ranges 100,000,000 tons of magnetic ore. For many years mining men have sought a small subsidy, say 50 cents a ton, for the cost of doing some concentrating of the low graded ores. But as long as Minnesota ore could be obtained cheaply, no action was deemed advisable. The Mesaba range is thinning out quickly, and in another ten or fifteen years its economic usefulness will be fairly well dissipated. Then, as in the case of pulp and pulpwood, the United States will turn to Ontario's supply of iron ore. It is just a question now of efficient and cheap mining and transportation, for much of the iron ore in the Northern ranges will average 40 to 60 per cent, as high as the best of the Mesaba ore.

Economically it might be better for Ontario to conserve her own supplies of iron ore for the day of pressing need. Except for the influence it has on international trade, the use of American ores is a better conservation policy. But when our smelters can smelt Canadian ore more cheaply than American, and the issue becomes one of equally cheap production, then the time of considering in a practical way of utilization of our ores has approached.

DOYLE DECEIVED BY VERY CRUDE WORK.

Filson Young, the English writer, who was denounced recently by his former friend, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, for unconventional conduct at a spiritist seance, has published his account of the proceedings. His experience, save for the incident of taking the trumpet from the medium, is identical with the experiences of other people who have attended these seances, either in a sceptic frame of mind or as devout inquirers. What strikes us is the trumpery nature of the alleged phenomena produced. We had supposed that if Conan Doyle was deceived, and we have no doubt that he has been thoroughly deceived, some expert work was required, that the frauds would need to have been the work of artists. Instead of that, according to Filson Young's account, Sir Arthur was as easily deluded as the stupidest person who ever attended a seance and paid a quarter for the privilege.

Tuning Up.

Mr. Young had been impressed by a little book on spiritism, written by Conan Doyle, and on saying so, was invited to attend a seance held in a house in a London suburb. Of the eight or ten persons who went to the seance, only Mr. Young and perhaps one other, were not spiritists, and only Mr. Young could have any pretence of being considered an investigator. Before the performance began the visitors sat about and discussed what they expected to see or hear, and examined some photographs alleged to have been taken of spirits. The mood was one of expectancy, even of confidence. Sir Arthur, the better to attune himself to the experience to which he was looking forward, had taken no lunch. The medium was a Mrs. Johnson, who told the company that she expected a "very nice afternoon," since she was keenly aware of the presence. Doyle also said that he felt himself alive with ectoplasm.

The Guides Appear.

The party sat in a circle, with a large trumpet in the centre. All the lights were turned out, leaving the room in pitch darkness. Then a gramophone was turned on, for it was explained that this encouraged the spooks. Songs were struck up, followed by hymns. Presently a voice was heard, and it appeared that it was the voice of a Lancashire lad, who was one of the medium's controls. Jock was greeted warmly by the worshippers, and, after considerable vague and inane conversation, said that his friend, David, a choice Scotch spirit, would presently attend. Soon after his voice was heard and the conversation became general, though Mr. Young was able to learn nothing of any value from the observations of the spooks, and proceeded to lose interest in the manifestations.

Suspicions Aroused.

After awhile he began to note certain facts about the voices, one being that, though the medium talked to them, her voice and the voice of neither of the apparitions was to be heard at the same time. He noted, too, that the Lancashire dialect was not a local one, but an individual one. This applied also to the Scotchman. He could detect the same inflections occasionally in the voice of the medium. Presently another voice was heard, that supposedly of a little girl. It was identified promptly by the secretary of the society as that of his child. Mr. Young, listening intently, detected in the child's voice some of the peculiarities which he had found to be common to the voices of David, Jock and Mrs. Johnson. After a while a fourth voice was heard. It was explained that the owner of this voice was making her first visit to earth and had to be encouraged. Her voice was faint. So a hymn was struck up to reassure the spirit.

Spirits Thwarted.

A lady next the author was certain that this voice belonged to her mother and a dialogue ensued between them. At this time Mr. Young was conscious of the fact that the trumpet was extended in front of him, pointing from the chair where the medium sat to the chair on which the lady sat. Stretching out his hand, he took hold of the trumpet. Whoever had it at the other end immediately let go. So, moving the trumpet about, and rather at a loss to know what to do with it, Mr. Young touched the lady. She immediately declared that she had felt her mother's hand. Then he put the trumpet out of reach of the merium. There were no more spirit voices that afternoon. On leaving the house he told the lady that it was he who had touched her, not a spirit. She reported the matter to Conan Doyle, who wrote to Mr. Young, severing their friendship, and declaring that Young was not a gentleman.

A new dance is called the "Radio Romp." Probably because in the performance of it all the conventions are waived.

There was a sale of stray horses on the Blood Reserve last week. Fifty head in all being disposed of. There were a number of valuable work horses in the lot. The animals realized from $20 up. Many buyers from outside points were present at this sale, as well as many Indian purchasers. Several animals bore brands not registered in the Alberta brand book. Owners who could be located were notified of the impending sale, but failed to put in an appearance.

Inspector Barr, of Pincher Creek, was in town Wednesday. Mr. Barr's duty is to visit all mixing stations, take up complaints, interview Reeves and councillors of the various municipalities, and generally keep in touch with the work now going on, the aim of which is the extermination of the grasshopper pest so prevalent in the whole country. In many districts reports are very favorable, very few grasshoppers being now in evidence. In other districts, however, where the work of poisoning was started late or not so actively carried on the pests are still operating extensively and much damage is reported.

It is noted that the Macleod Agricultural Society have had their announcement bills for the summer fair printed at the Enterprise Show Print Shop at Rouleau, Sask., perhaps the money paid for this work will come back to Macleod if some patriotic citizen takes a shot gun and goes after it. The bill is a hybrid affair, being a ready-print carried in stock with the local fair's advertising printed in, and naturally does not lend itself to proper display as an announcement of the Macleod fair—the name, date, and features being overwhelmed entirely by ready-print portion in red ink—a representation of "Father" in the upper right hand corner in light lines of black, enveloped by irregular blobs of ink, suggesting to any but very close up observers of the production that some one had thrown an egg or an ancient orange or that a tobacco chewing giant had mistaken the bill for a cuspidor. The Macleod Exhibition will doubtless be a high-class affair from every stand-point this year and it seems a shame to advertise it with any but original and properly displayed announcements—a premier home product heralded by home product posters.
